Ex-Olympian swims, wins

By STEVEN KRASNER
Journal-Bulletin Sports Writer

PROVIDENCE — Swimming in the Olympics is the ultimate reward for young people who dedicate themselves to the sport.

Practices are long and hard, a seemingly never-ending series of lap after lap after lap. Some are lucky enough to make the Olympic team. Some aren't. After they are through with competitive swimming, though, most of them have one thing in common — they never want to see a pool again.

But not Steve Clark, a lawyer from San Francisco. At the age of 18, Clark was a member of the United States swim team in the 1960 Games in Rome. Four years later, he was a member of three gold-medal-winning relay teams at the 1964 Games in Tokyo.

And now, at the age of 35, Clark still likes to hop into the pool for a race now and then.

"I FEEL GOOD WHEN I swim," said Clark yesterday, shortly before winning the 100-meter freestyle in the 35-39 division of the National AAU Masters Long-Course Swimming Championships at Brown's pool.

"Most people I know (from the Olympics) don't want to get back in the water," he added. "They don't have the good memories I do. I had a good time when I was swimming. I had coaches who made it fun."

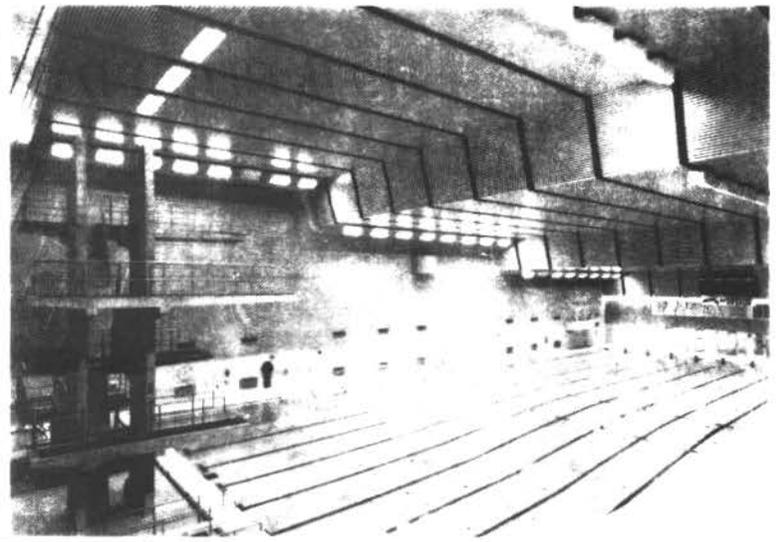

But Clark did give up competitive swimming for a while.

"I stopped when I was 21," he said. "I graduated from school (Yale) and I went on to law school. It was kind of an appropriate time to make the break."

Six months ago, he decided to get back into competitive swimming, with the Masters.

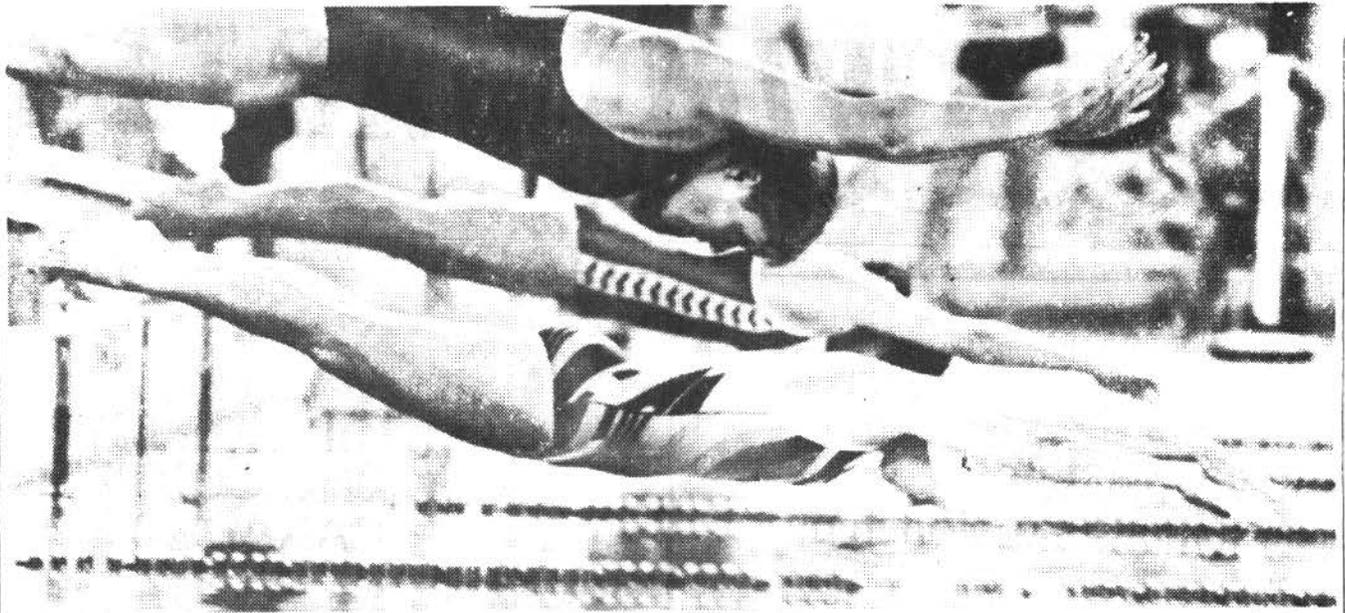

"The nice thing about the Masters is that you don't get the butterflies," he said. "Some people might not I don't. There's not much emphasis on winning. The rules are nice and liberal. They encourage people to participate. It's fun. People have a good time."

1ST SENIOR AGE DIVISION AQUATIC COMPETITION CANADA 1978

The first MASTERS AQUATIC CHAMPIONSHIPS brought out swimmers from ten countries - Australia, Austria, Canada, France, Germany, Great Britain, Ireland, Japan, United States and Venezuela. Approximately 410 people competed in Swimming, Diving, Water Polo and Synchronized Swimming. Competitions were held at the Etobicoke Olympium with a 50 meter olympic size pool and a 25 yard pool, a double gym that converts into a roller arena and a fitness club - one of the finest facilities in Canada.

One of the surprises was to discover how long the Germans have had Masters Swimming! Richard Reinstadtler of Dusseldorf, a 66-year-old engineer, told me that Senior (Masters) swimming started after World War II. All swimming is done by "clubs". Mr. Reinstadtler's club has approximately 2000 members - all age groups - all four aquatic sports and includes officials among their members. Events for Senior swimmers were conducted on the first day of meets. Approximately ten years ago the number of Seniors had grown to such proportions that the Federation had to schedule separate meets. They now conduct a three day national championship meet plus local meets. They have 9 classifications and stop with 65-70 - using the same age groupings as we do. Next year they already have 46 competitions scheduled out of 52 week-ends. There has been very little communication among older swimmers throughout the world because many Swimming Federations have only recently become aware of the program. We hope this can be corrected in the near future.

THEIR GLORY DAYS ARE JUST BEGINNING THE TORONTO STAR Fri., Aug. 25, 1978

More than 400 athletes from 10 countries are competing in first-ever world senior-age aquatic championships this week at Etobicoke Olympium. They range in age from 25 to 80-plus and include a few former Olympians. For many others, this meet represents a new high in sports; they have taken up swimming, diving, water polo or synchronized swimming late in life. Here, American J. M. Sherman (nearest water) hits the pool en route to victory in 100 metre breast stroke.

Swimmers master age in nationals

ON THE MOVE: John Higgins, a Rhode Island native, en route to victory in 200-meter backstroke in 60-64 age group yesterday at Brown's Smith Swim Center. Higgins posted a triple.

By PAUL KENYON

Journal-Bulletin Sports Writer

PROVIDENCE — It was 43 years ago when John Higgins started going to the Brown University pool to try to break national and world swim records.

Yesterday, John Higgins was back in the pool at Brown again, still setting national swim records.

Higgins, the Rhode Island native who went on to fame as an Olympic swimmer and swim coach at the Naval Academy, was one of the stars yesterday in the opening day of the four-day National AAU Masters Long-Course Swimming Championships at the Smith Swimming Center.

Higgins won three events in his age-group, the 200-yard breaststroke, 200-yard backstroke and the 400-yard individual medley.

Even with his accomplishments, it was easy not to notice him. At 62-years-old, he is not that much above the average age of the 527 competitors from throughout the United States, England, Venezuela and Canada taking part in this eighth annual event.

There was an 85-year-old woman, Nellie Brown, swimming the 50-meter freestyle in 1:37.82. There was a 50-year-old woman who is the mother of 14 children, Tink Bolster of Princeton, N.J., setting a national record in her age division in the 200-yard breaststroke.

THERE WAS Jim Edwards of Providence winning a gold medal in the 55-60-year-old division in the 200-meter backstroke. There was Clarence Ross of New Jersey celebrating his 79th birthday by winning his division of the 200-yard backstroke in record time.

There were former Olympians, doctors, lawyers, housewives and retired people, all having a good time, cheering each other on, but at the same time trying as hard as they ever did to come out on top.

And John Higgins has always been very good at coming out on top in swim meets.

Higgins grew up in Providence, on Public Street, went to Central High and swam a lot at the Providence YMCA, and later, and most prominently, at the Olneyville Boys' Club. Joe Whatmough, then the coach at the Olneyville Club, took Higgins under his wing and developed him into one of the top swimmers in the country.

IN HIS TIME, Higgins was a world record holder in the breaststroke.

"That was in 1935. I went up to the Brown pool — that's the old Brown pool, not this beautiful one here, the old two-lane job — and they wanted me to try for a world record," Higgins was recalling with pleasure.

"I did it. I set the world record. One of the records I set stood for 12 years."

He went on to the 1936 Olympics where he settled for fourth place in his specialty, then Ohio State University and the Navy. He was in the Navy until 1954 and was the swim coach at Annapolis until 1973 when he retired from coaching. He kept his job — and he still has it — as aquatics director at the Academy.

He returned "home" this week partially to visit his sister, Mrs. Betty Schaffner of Warwick (he's staying at her home during the meet) but just as importantly to earn more swimming honors.

THE STILL VERY-FIT athlete won his division titles (competition is held by divisions, with five-year brackets starting with the youngest, 25, through 80 and older) in the backstroke where his 3:11.25 broke the national record for 60-64-year-olds by four seconds; in the breaststroke where his 3:27.69 was six seconds behind the record he set last year, and the individual medley where his 6:57.11 was six seconds better than the national record.

Other major winners included Dr. Burwell "Bump" Jones of Sarasota, Fla., who at 45 not only won his division but had better times than most of the younger swimmers in the 200 back (2:40.81), 50 free (28.09) and 400 IM (5:40.60).

Steve Clark, a three-time Olympic gold medalist who is now a 35-year-old San Francisco attorney, won his division in the 50 free with a 25.66 and Fred Schlicher, 30, of New Mexico, probably the top Master's swimmer in the country, did a 5:01.45 in the 400 IM.
